FOUNDED IN 1871. CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., SATURDAY EVENING, JULY 22, 1922. PRICE THREE CENTS.

306 NEW BUILDINGS HAVE BEEN ERECTED IN KINGSTON IN 1922

That Number Has Been Added to the Assessor's Maps of City —There are 108 New Houses, 143 Garages and 55 Other Structures—Plans Being Prepared for Other Buildings.

Since the first of the year there have been added to the assessor's maps of Kingston 306 new buildings that have been erected throughout the city. This is the largest amount of new work in any like period since the World War.

Of the new buildings 108 are houses, 143 garages and 55 other structures.

The erection of over a hundred houses in Kingston will have a tendency to solve the rent problem in the city and will also add several hundred thousands of dollars to the city's assessed valuations, the exact amount not being known.

Contractors and residents having houses erected should notify the city engineer's office of the fact. Some time ago the common council adopted an ordinance making it necessary to report all new construction work to the city engineer's office, but of late the ordinance has been somewhat of a dead letter.

The members of the city engineer's office and of the assessor's office in making tours of the city have found a number of new buildings that were not reported as required by the ordinance.

S. E. EIGHMEY'S 25TH BIRTHDAY

Hustling Downtown Dry Goods Merchant Has Been in Business in Kingston a Quarter of a Century—Celebrates Event With Big Sale—New Bridge Aids Business.

S. E. Eighmey, one of the best known dry goods merchants in the Hudson river valley, the past week has been celebrating his twenty-fifth business anniversary with a big sale at his store on Broadway, at Mill street. During the quarter of a century Mr. Eighmey has been established in business he has seen the business grow from a small beginning to one of the largest stores in the city.

It was twenty-five years ago when Mr. Eighmey decided to establish himself in the dry goods business and he opened a store at No. 19 Broadway on the opposite side of Broadway from his present location. By careful attention to business and by giving honest value for every cent spent with him the business rapidly began to expand and he found it necessary to seek new quarters.

He removed from his first store to the present building at the corner of Mill street, and in 1911 the business had grown to such proportions that he found it necessary to again expand and by purchasing the building on Mill street, adjoining his store, and by using the entire second floor he doubled his floor space.

Since then there has been a steady growth until today Mr. Eighmey is proprietor of one of the finest dry goods stores in Kingston and vicinity. His policy which he first inaugurated when he started in business of giving honest values has proven highly successful and has been of material assistance in building up his business to its present large proportions.

Since the opening of the Rondout Creek Bridge Mr. Eighmey has found that his trade in southern Ulster has been largely increased. He has always kept in touch with the residents of the town of Esopus and of the other towns to the south of Kingston and when the bridge opened he found that his business from that section had materially increased.

When he first established his dry goods business twenty-five years ago Kingston had a board of trade and Mr. Eighmey immediately affiliated himself with that organization realizing that every successful city needed an active organization of that kind. Later when the board of trade became the present Chamber of Commerce he still continued his interest in the organization and has always been one of the most active members of that body.

Mr. Eighmey believes thoroughly in the future of Kingston and takes an active part in every move for the betterment of city conditions. He has confidence in the future of the downtown section of the city and the fact that his business continues to steadily increase proves his contention that the merchant who gives honest values will always find a ready market for his goods.

He is also a firm believer in printer's ink, and is one of the largest advertisers in the city. For years he has been a steady and constant advertiser in the columns of The Freeman and he believes that a large part of his success is due to the advertising he has done and is doing.

There has been nothing spectacular in the steady growth of the dry goods business as built up by Mr. Eighmey, and results have shown that a merchant by giving attention to the details of his business, extending every courtesy to his customers, carrying a line of standard merchandise, and advertising honestly will succeed.

MISS FONTAINE IN LOS ANGELES

Young Whitney Nearby and Those Opposed to Marriage Fear That it Will Be Consummated and Forestall Lawsuit.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 22.—Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, and Miss Evan Burrows Fontaine, Oriental dancer, principals in a legal action by which Miss Fontaine seeks to establish the legitimacy of her eighteen months' baby, are both in Los Angeles, according to information secured here today.

Miss Fontaine went to California soon after abandoning her part in "Spice of 1922" in which she was booked to star. The beautiful dancer was said to have gone to Los Angeles for two reasons; first to recuperate from troubled nerves; second to fulfill a Hollywood film contract. Young Whitney is understood to have gone to California also and to be residing at the present time in a hotel not far from that of Miss Fontaine.

Lawyers on both sides are intensely excited over the situation in which they see a possibility of the two principals in the lawsuit undertaking to settle the matter out of hand themselves. It would not surprise any of them to learn that Miss Fontaine and Whitney had decided to marry, despite parental objections on the part of the young man's rich and socially prominent family.

The senior Whitney—Harry Payne—known to racing folks as the owner of Whiskaway, Whisk Broom, John P. Grier and other famous thoroughbreds, had set his face and his money against the match.

It is reported, however, that the senior Whitney took his son to task for the manner in which he had treated Miss Fontaine after the latter had been a guest at the Whitney home.

Mrs. Whitney—who has gained fame as a sculptress as well as an entertainer in the inner circles of the "Four Hundred"—was said to be bitterly opposed to introduction of a dancer into the Whitney family.

But the person who, with the exception of Miss Fontaine, is in the worst quandary of all, is Miss Marie Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Norton, whose engagement to Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, Jr., was publicly announced a month ago.

Refusal of lawyers in New York and Chicago to handle her suit delayed for several months the filing of the action by Miss Fontaine, against young Whitney, it was revealed today by Miss Fontaine's mother.

Mrs. Fontaine said it was not until former State Senator Edgar T. Brackett, of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., was approached, that Miss Fontaine found an attorney who would handle her case. The action was begun in the Saratoga county courts in June, 1921.

Miss Fontiane was formerly the wife of Sterling Adair, a Texas oil salesman, who was married to Evan in April, 1918. The couple separated a few weeks after their marriage. In the summer of 1919, Adair met a tragic death. He was found shot to death on the outskirts of Dallas, Texas.

Traffic Violators.

Friday Motorcycle Officers Soper and Kuehn arrested Bub A. Deitz of New York, Abram Wood of 484 Hasbrouck avenue, Max Seidner of New York, and James H. Garinesey of Brooklyn, on a charge of speeding. All gave cash bail for their appearance later. Officer Burger arrested the same day Arthur Goodman of Poughkeepsie on a charge of parking his car in the restricted area on North Front street. He also gave bail for his appearance later.

TROOPERS SENT TO PORT JERVIS

Mayor Rutan Asks Governor for Aid to Quell Riots in Erie Shops Which He Fears Will Grow More Serious.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, July 22.—Ten state troopers from Troop K, at White Plains, were rushed to Port Jervis, Orange county, early today upon orders issued by Governor Miller.

This action followed a telephone call last night from Mayor Peter C. Rutan of Port Jervis, to the governor asking for troopers to help quell incipient rioting in the Erie railroad shops.

The mayor told the governor he feared the situation might get beyond control today.

BRISK SELLING AT CITY MARKET

Peaches, apples, berries, cucumbers, corn, potatoes, beets, carrots, onions, dill pickles, turnips, and cabbage were on the city public market on Cornell street today and sold briskly. The mountain boarding houses are taking advantage of buying produce at the wholesale prices. Monday's market will have peaches, apples, plums, berries and all kinds of vegetables.

LLOYD GEORGE NOT TO VISIT U. S.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 22.—Premier Lloyd George has been urged by his closest advisers to go to Washington as the head of the British debt funding commission to discuss world affairs with President Harding in order to make up for his absence from the Washington conference, but the suggestion was rejected by the premier, it was learned from an authoritative source this afternoon.

The following official version of the matter was given to International News Service by a Downing street confidante of the premier:

"Mr. Lloyd George decided not to go to the United States because of his fears that Europe is on the verge of possible chaos and bankruptcy. Premier Lloyd George believes that the crisis will be reached during the next three months. It is not merely a question of reparations settlement. The crux of the issue lies in central Germany and involves the question whether France wants a weak Germany that is unable to meet her obligations, or will permit the creation of a strong Germany which will eventually be able to pay off all her debts.

"The question is more psychological than financial. Through the fall in the value of the mark, Germany already is finding difficulty in importing enough food to support the population.

LAWRENCE MORNING FIRE BELIEVED INCENDIARY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lawrence, Mass., July 22.—Arrests are expected in connection with what is believed to have been an incendiary fire early today near the corner of Park and Hampshire streets. The damage is variously estimated at between $10,000 and $22,000.

Three persons were being questioned by fire and police officials shortly after the blaze was extinguished.

The fire started in the lumber yard of Nathan Heffron and soon spread to nearly tenements, also owned by Heffron. A number of rescues were made and several suffered minor injuries.

PENNSYLVANIA MAYORS PLAN ANTHRACITE STRIKE SETTLEMENT

Announcement Made After Conference at the White House —Plan to be Presented to Heads of Miners' Union at Conference to be Called by Mayor of Scranton.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 22.—A plan for settling the coal strike in the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania has been worked out by the mayors of Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Carbondale, Hazelton and Pittston for presentation to John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, Mayor John F. Durken of Scranton announced today following a conference with President Harding at the White House.

Durken said he would return immediately to Scranton to call a conference of the union leaders in the anthracite fields and would outline the plan to them.

BUFFALO STRIKE AT TURNING POINT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 22.—With state troops patroling the streets, and the International Railway Company planning to resume the operation of four more lines before the day is ended, the trolley strike here seems to have reached the turning point.

"I am satisfied that the strike is broken," is the statement of the chief of police. This, together with the arrival of the constabulary and the action of the city council in approving the continuation of jitney service until trolley transportation is normal, constituted the only new developments.

The railway company opposed authorization by the council of jitney service on the ground the company was able to furnish adequate transportation but it lost its fight. Few persons are riding in the cars.

Police warned women and children to keep out of danger zones. The street railway company announces it will operate night service next week.

ANOTHER CIRCUS HERE AUGUST 18

The advance man of the Walter E. Mains shows was in Kingston today interviewing Chief of Police J. Allan Wood regarding the appearance of the Mains shows in Kingston on August 18. He said that the Mains circus was a trifle larger than the Sparks shows which played a very successful stand here recently. Just what grounds the Mains shows will use is not known at the present time, but they will likely pitch their tents on the old circus grounds on Stephan street, where the Sparks circus showed.

Ships To Bring Coal.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 22.—U. S. Shipping Board officials announced here today that importation of coal from England would avert a coal famine in this city as a result of the miners' strike. Thirteen ships now abroad have already been chartered to bring cargoes of coal totalling more than 500,000 tons to be delivered here early in August. That there was prospect of a coal famine in New York city within the next 10 days was the consensus of opinion of the largest dealers in domestic coal, before the announcement of the Shipping Board officials.

PA. GUARD AT STRATEGIC POINTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 22.—Pennsylvania's guardsmen today were scattered over a wide area in the western part of the state with most of the troops and headquarters at Washington, Pa., as their base. Other units were stretched out over a long line east and north of here. They are all set for any sort of disturbance but at present there is no indication of trouble.

Governor Sproul has announced his determination to call out every man in the Twenty-eighth Division if the occasion requires.

Indications this morning were that first attempts to open the bituminous mines next week would be made in Washington, Cambria and Indiana counties. Official announcement of such a plan was not forthcoming, however, from the Pittsburgh Coal Producers' Association.

A new scale was posted today at the mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Producers' Association, which also announced abolition of the check-off system. This posting of scale was more or less of a legal formality. It was announced by International News Service earlier in the week.

It was announced at railroad offices here that every effort would be made to keep a flow of cars going to the mines.

DE VALERA LEADS AT CLONMEL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dublin, July 22.—Fighting broke out here today between Free State and Irregular troops when a detachment of Irregulars attacked the Four Courts Hotel. They were driven off after an interval of heavy firing.

Twenty men were killed in the fighting at Limerick, according to a revised casualty estimate.

Eamonn de Valera is now reported to be commanding the Irregulars from headquarters established at Clonmel.

Rebel troops are concentrating at Cork. It is believed that there are already several thousand Irregulars concentrated there—a sufficient force to put up a desperate battle against the Regulars.

New Auto Club Members.

A meeting of the executive board of the Ulster County Automobile Association was held at the court house, Friday evening, when action was taken admitting several new members to the association. The committee will continue its drive for new members.

PRESIDENT HARDING CONFERS WITH HEAD OF RAILWAY LABOR BOARD

Senators Watson and Kellogg Also at the Conference Which Began at 10:30 This Morning—Rail Strike Considered of Greater Importance Than the Coal Strike.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 22.—With the arrival here at 9 o'clock this morning of Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the Railway Labor Board, for a conference with President Harding, the determination of the government that the paralyzing railroad strike must be settled at once if the country is to escape economic chaos, became all the more apparent.

Hooper declined to discuss the strike in advance of his interview with the president.

That the government has placed the rail strike ahead of the coal strike in its menacing possibilities, there was no longer any doubt. The coal strike, serious as it is, has been temporarily taken care of by placing the responsibility on the mine owners and the individual states, but the rail strike will admit of no such treatment.

President Harding called Hooper to Washington, it was said today in White House circles, because he wanted a first-hand account of all that has happened, and an exact interpretation of the attitude of both carriers and strikers. The president, it was said, was "tired of getting conflicting advice and opinions as to the basic, underlying causes of the present crisis."

When the chairman of the Railway Labor Board reached the capital this morning, the government was confronted with these serious conditions:

1—Successful termination of the national coal strike is entirely dependent upon prior settlement of the railroad strike.

2—Railway service throughout the country, through requirement of equipment, lack of trainmen and shortage of coal, is being curtailed to a point where it is highly dangerous to the national welfare.

3—Settlement of the rail strike without speedy and firm intervention by the executive, seems out of the question because of the attitude of a group of railroads.

4—Coal prices and prices of other necessities are beginning to soar as an accompaniment to the turbulent industrial situation.

5—Coal shortage this winter already is assured, and quick action must be taken if the shortage does not become an acute famine.

In many quarters, the belief was expressed that the issue of life or death for the Railway Labor Board, as it is now constituted, hangs on the president's conference with Ben W. Hooper.

President Harding has been informed by several of his cabinet officers that either the board should be abolished entirely or else it should be strengthened with such powers as to enable it to enforce its decisions.

Hooper went into conference with the president shortly before 10:30 o'clock.

Senators Cummins, of Iowa, Watson, of Indiana, Kellogg, of Minnesota, who have already made efforts to end the railroad strike through informal conversations with railway executives, later joined the Harding-Hooper conference at the White House.

HOOVER'S COAL POOLING PLAN

Calls Operators to Washington to Systematize Distribution According to Need and to Keep Prices From Soaring.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 22.—A government plan for the pooling of coal in the mine districts and the distribution of cars to carry it, will be considered by a conference of coal operators called to meet in Washington next Monday, Secretary of Commerce Hoover announced today.

Plans for distributing coal to railways, public utilities, by industries producing necessities, and to public institutions, will be considered at the conference, it was announced.

The call was issued to district representatives of the producing districts in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Virginia, Alabama, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Secretary Hoover announced today that plans have been formulated for the cooperation of the department of commerce and the Interstate Commerce Commission and the department of justice, by which the cooperation of responsible operators, the control of prices and distribution of the commodity can be effected.

The plan, Hoover said, is now before the department of justice. It provides for the pooling of coal in each district and the distribution of cars under the authority and direction of the government, with the cooperation of operators' committees.

The conference will also consider plans for making the voluntary restraint of profiteering effective in the districts which have refused to cooperate and which are now demanding $7.50 a ton for coal at the mines.

"Responsible operators are holding to the price," Hoover declared. "On the other hand," he continued, "some panicky railway buyers and others are sending out orders today, offering $8 at the mines.

SAY WIDOW INDUCED GIFTS FROM LAWYER

Mrs. Ames's Property Attached in Lawsuit.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New Haven, Conn., July 22.—Suit for $75,000 has been brought in the superior court here by Harry Post, conservator for Dwight W. Tuttle, 75, lawyer of this city, and twice state senator, against Cora D. Ames, 40, alleging that Mrs. Ames "took advantage of the ex-senator's unsound and incompetent mind," to induce him to transfer to her certain real estate and property. Nearly a score of pieces of property in various parts of the state held by Mrs. Ames are attached in the suit. Mrs. Ames says the suit is ridiculous, that she has been confidential secretary to the ex-senator and in charge of his affairs for twenty years.

Mrs. Ames is twice widowed, two husbands having committed suicide, one of them naming the ex-senator in a note he left at the time he shot himself.

BABOONS

"There are so many of you," said Billie Brownie as he went to visit the monkeys and the baboons and the chimpanzees in the zoo.

"True, true," they squealed.

"Won't you tell me who you are?"

"We're the monkeys," the monkeys shouted.

"We're the apes," the apes shouted.

"We're apes too," the chimpanzees cried.

"We're the lemurs," said the lemurs.

"You've Seen Me."

"We're the baboons and there are six different kinds of us," said the baboons.

"Do tell me the six different kinds," said Billie Brownie.

"We're the long-armed baboons," said the long-armed baboons.

"We're the West African baboons," said the West African baboons.

"I'll tell you who I am," said the Chacma, "I am the Chacma! But you've seen me before It's only my name that sounds interesting and unusual."

"Oh yes," said Billie Brownie, "I've seen you before."

"Have you seen me?" asked the Mandrill. "I am a Mandrill baboon and my face is so beautiful with its different colors—the blue touches are particularly lovely, I think.

"Don't you like my yellow beard too? It's not everyone who can boast of a yellow beard."

"That's true," said Billie Brownie. "In fact I don't know many who can boast of having a lovely yellow beard as you have—or even any kind of a yellow beard."

"I am full grown. It took me six years to become a full-grown mandrill.

"You see that makes me important like the lion. It takes the lion five years to grow his full-sized mane and to become a grown-up lion

"I've heard it takes children longer than that to grow up. Gracious, but they're slow I could never wait to be fifteen or twenty or sixty or whenever it is to be grown up."

"I have handsome teeth, haven't I? Fine fangs, I consider."

"They're rather sharp looking," said Billy Brownie laughing

"And here am I," said the Rhodesian baboon. "I'm a newcomer."

"So I see," said Billie Brownie.

"You know us," said the Hamadryas.

"Oh yes," said Billie Brownie.

"I am not sure whether or not I like the zoo," said the Rhodesian baboon.

"Perhaps I'd be able to tell you at breakfast time tomorrow morning and then I'd be able to make a statement and you could publish it in all the papers, far and wide."

"Papers aren't so wide and they don't reach very far either," said the West African baboon.

"I don't mean the size of the papers," said the Rhodesian baboon.

"Then, my dear baboon, you should say what you mean," said the West African baboon.

"You did not give me a chance to finish. You interrupted and it was rude."

"I beg your pardon, I beg your pardon, I'm sure," said the West African baboon.

"Then as long as you're sure you beg my pardon it makes it better, much better"

"You see I thought you had finished talking," explained the West African baboon.

"I see, I see," said the Rhodesian baboon

"I didn't mean the size of the papers," he repeated, "but I meant that it could be published in papers all over the land—that was what I meant by far and wide.

"Don't You Like My Yellow Beard?"

"However, the papers might not publish the news I am not sure that they would. So after all, Billie Brownie, I don't believe I will have a statement to give you at breakfast time. I think I will have a nap instead"

"Well, that is all right," said Billie Brownie, "because I couldn't come at breakfast time in any case. I'm breakfasting with my friend Ollie Oaf tomorrow morning.

"But I'm glad to have met you all this afternoon and thank you for telling me who you all are."

"Glad to have told you, glad to have told you," they all said together.

GOOD EVERYDAY DISHES

Honey is not only one of the most wholesome of sweets, but medicinal, and healing in its qualities It is especially good for a cough, and one person suffering from catarrh was entirely cured by working with bees and eating honey every day When it is made on the place it may be used more freely and can take the place of sugar in many dishes, often being an improvement

Honey Mousse.—Beat the yolks of four eggs, then add one cupful of strained honey. Heat gradually, stirring constantly until thick Remove from the fire to cool, then add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, a teaspoonful of almond extract and one-half cupful of shredded almonds with a pint of whipped cream. Mix well pack in ice and salt and freeze without stirring

Honey Muffins.—Sift two cupfuls of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one half teaspoonful of salt Rub in two tablespoonfuls of butter, add two well beaten eggs two-thirds of a cupful of honey and five tablespoonfuls of milk Mix well and pour into well buttered pans, filling half full and bake in a moderate oven

Honey Breakfast Toast.—Beat one egg, add an inch of salt, two tablespoonfuls of honey and one cupful of milk. Dip half slices of stale bread in this mixture and fry in a little hot fat. Serve with honey and butter.

Green Apple Soup.—Chop ten sour apples without coring or paring and cook in two quarts of water until a smooth pulp Strain, return the liquid to the kettle and thicken with four tablespoonfuls of arrowroot stirred to a paste with four tablespoonfuls of water; add to one-half cupful of the apple pulp, then add to the kettle, stirring until it has boiled and cooked the starch in the arrowroot Add a dash of white pepper and two tablespoonfuls of sugar Just before serving add the juice of half a lemon and garnish with lettuce in small rounds and scattered over the soup like confetti.

John Marin and the Mob.

The effort to put one's own life into one's work always stirs the mob to either pain or laughter, and I suppose it should, the mob, after all, being a product of nature, and there for just that purpose, to test the true mettle of an artist. There are countless painters who have energy and force of character who know full well what the mob is there for, but with all the will in the world to rouse the unwieldly mass and provoke it to a riot, they cannot so much as attract a glance. Along comes a modest man like John Marin, whose only prayer, apparently, is to be let alone, and who furthermore has embarked in the usually considered safe calling of the landscapist—and instantly the world divides into two sections of unequal proportions, the lesser proclaiming "That stuff is great," and the greater insisting "It is an insult to intelligence."—Henry McBride, in the Dial.

Equally Good Hot or Cold

No matter which way Reliance Coffee is served it is equally good any way you take it.

Served ice cold in a tinkling glass, it is a most delightful and refreshing summer drink.

Served steaming hot, it has a flavor and fragrance all its own--and it "TASTES as good as it smells."

FIND BEST OILS ARE ECONOMICAL

Manufacturers for Years Have Called Attention to Importance of Lubrication.

OWNERS DEPEND ON DEALERS

Inferior Article Decomposes Easily and Forms Large Quantities of Sediment and Carbon Residue —Wear Is Result.

Automobile manufacturers for years have been impressing on motorists the vast importance of correct lubrication for the maintenance of the internal combustion engine. Their stand has been taken from an economical standpoint and in order to insure the long life of the motor.

A recent investigation in the oil market showed that a large percentage of automobile owners do not specify a particular brand when purchasing a lubricating oil, but depend entirely on the judgment and preference of the dealer. This fact makes possible the harmful practice of substitution of an inferior grade at the price of a quality oil.

Educational Campaign.

Feeling that there are definite steps which can be taken to eliminate this fact, the producers have inaugurated an educational advertising campaign by means of which the importance of correct lubrication is taken up step by step in a language which any layman can thoroughly understand.

Lubrication has become recognized as such an important factor that engineers have spent years of intensive research to produce a lubricant which will maintain its body under the extreme heat generated in the motor, which varies from 150 to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, and to function properly under every possible condition.

Inferior Oil Wasteful.

It has been found that an inferior lubricating oil very easily decomposes and forms large quantities of sediment and carbon residue which has no lubricating value and is therefore waste material. This sediment and carbon residue crowd out the good oil from the bearings and rapidly moving parts of the machine. Friction and wear result. If the majority of the motorists realized that such conditions can be very largely overcome by using a quality oil at a higher initial cost, a great deal of trouble with most automobiles would be eliminated.

AUTOMATIC BRAKE AND IGNITION CONTROL TO PREVENT ACCIDENTS

The Illustration Shows the Flexibility of Contact and Bow Shaped Cushioning Protection Afforded Driver and Object Hit

A new accident preventive for automobiles, which protects car driver, pedestrian, and the other fellow's car as well, is now being manufactured after two years of experiments with the original patents. It is an automatic brake and ignition control, and its purpose is the minimizing of traffic accidents; the prevention of accidents while cars are parked, and the reduction of injury to cars or to pedestrians when accidents occur at high speeds. The vast majority of automotive accidents however occur at speeds below 15 miles an hour. Little short of a miracle can avert disastrous results in accidents when the automibles are traveling at high speeds so that the developers of this device have devoted their attention to the production of an attachment which will prevent and, where impossible to prevent minimize, the results of collisions and other accidents at lower rates of speed, notably in traffic in cities, in which the majority of automotive accidents occur.

Same Place as Bumper.

The new device is carried in the same place as a bumper, but is not a bumper. It is a simple mechanism consisting of flexible contact bars or cables fastened by goosenecks to the front and to the rear of the car, being equally applicable to passenger cars or to motortrucks. These contact bars, yielding to a pressure of only 15 pounds, make contacts with electrically wired contact points, in turn connected with a brake and ignition control contained in a small cylinder which rides freely with the brake rod so as not to interfere with the foot or hand braking of the car under ordinary conditions. The slight pressure on the contact bars makes connection in a fraction of a second setting the brakes, cutting off the ignition and thereby adding compression to the braking force and blowing the horn.

AUTOMOBILE GOSSIP

A new owner of an automobile, when searching for trouble, often creates more than he finds.

* * *

A carburetor should not be adjusted until the engine is run until it has attained the heat it would normally develop on the road.

Accidents Will Happen

Administer first aid to the injured.

Equip the car with a small case of first aid materials.

Get the names and addresses of all who actually saw the accident.

If the car is covered by insurance, notify the agent as soon as possible.

Clear the road so that traffic, if it is restricted or blocked, can be resumed.

The nearest automobile will volunteer to rise the injured one to the nearby hospital or physician's office.

THE DIGEST DECIDES IT.

The Literary Digest is busily engaged in settling another momentous national question. About every time an issue presents itself upon which public opinion appears to be equally divided the Digest feels it incumbent upon itself to take a straw ballot. Just now it is the soldiers' bonus. According to the advertisement of the proceeding, secret ballots have been mailed to "more than 10,000,000 voters," with the request that they vote "Yes" or "No" to the following question: "Do you favor a Federal Bonus for all American soldiers and sailors who wore the uniform during the World War?" There is no opportunity to qualify the answer. The only way to reply is to put a cross in one of the squares marked "Yes" and "No."

The question is most unfair, and whatever may result from the tabulation of the replies, it will have but little direct bearing on the problem that is presented to Congress for solution. What is a bonus? It may range all the way from hospital aids for a disabled veteran to a cash donation of hundreds of dollars to a man who came through the war without a scratch and in perfect health. Special aid has been given the ex-soldiers in many and varied ways, each of which can be correctly termed a bonus. Hospitalization, vocational training, compensation to dependents, insurance, relief from some of the requirements of the homestead laws, the mining claim laws, and the civil service laws and a cash donation of $60 for every ex-service man are some of the forms that Federal bonuses have taken up to this time. In the bill now pending before Congress there are four different kinds of bonus offered: vocational training, farm and home aid, land settlement aid, and a cash settlement through a system of certificates. The whole bill is a bonus bill, and every item in it is a bonus item, but the policies involved in those items differ as widely as the poles.

There is practically no opposition to the forms of Federal bonus that have been granted or proposed, except that involving a distribution of cash from the public treasury, yet the Literary Digest questionnaire permits no differentiation between them. Neither does it recognize any difference in status between those men who staid at home and those who braved the dangers of the front line in France, upon which point there is a wide variation of bonus opinion. Whatever the result of the Digest poll may be it will be seized upon by either the friends or opponents of the cash bonus plan as a weighty argument for their cause. As a matter of fact the vote will be utterly worthless as a correct gauge of the public mind, and its outcome ought to be thoroughly discounted in advance of the announcement.

THE CANADIAN BOUNDARY.

Premier King of Canada thinks the century-old boundary agreement entered into by the British and American governments may be in need of extension and modernization, and in making this suggestion to our State Department he said: "At the recent Conference on Disarmament no single aspect of international relations attracted more attention than the unfortified frontier of from three to four thousand miles between the United States and Canada. Over and over again reference was made to the so-called Rush-Bagot agreement of 1817, under which armament on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River was restricted to four vessels of 100 tons burden, each carrying not more than one eighteen-pound gun." He said further that the agreement was dwelt upon by Old-World delegates not only as an economic fact tempting to a bankrupt world but as appealing to altruism; as maintaining friendship and good will; "as an object-lesson to the continents of Europe and Asia of New World methods in the maintenance of international peace."

If this international agreement to leave thousands of miles of border line undefended has been so successful in promoting peace for 105 years, what need is there of any essential change? The principle itself would have to stand even if the two countries were hostile and predatory instead of friendly and peace-loving, for the impossibility of fortifying nearly 4,000 miles of boundary is manifest. What sort of treaty "extension" has Premier King in mind? Is he thinking of means to meet the problem of the liquor smuggling now continually going on across this boundary line of unparalleled length?

Addressing the American Press Association of Rome recently, Ambassador Richard Washburn Child is reported as contending for the general benevolent intent of European statesmen in dealing with their intricate problems, and as asserting: "The idea that they are plotting and scheming against each other is a pure fabrication of newspaper men." Mr. Child may be convinced that they are all beautifully reformed, but history shows up quite a little plotting and scheming on the part of European statesmen long before there were either newspapers or newspaper men.

Burroughs Club Nature Notes

Copyrighted 1922, by Burroughs Service Co.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Do woodpeckers raise more than one brood? I have found a nest with young, pretty late, it seems to me.

2. Is the night air malarious?

3. What can I do for peach trees to stop worms working into them? They live in the wood out of sight.

Answers in Monday's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Why is the cow-bird's egg almost always hatched out ahead of the real eggs in a stolen nest?

For one thing, the normal incubation period of the cowbird's egg seems to be shorter than that of most of its involuntary hosts. Then too, the egg is unusually the biggest in the nest, and so absorbs most warmth from the small mother. It may crowd the "real" eggs (as you say) to the edge where they are less well brooded.

2. What can I feed a captive trout?

If a young specimen, it will do well on herring roe, which you can buy canned from dealers. It is used extensively at the New York Aquarium in rearing trout. Older specimens will take chopped raw beef, or lamb, or chopped fish or shell fish. Use the herring roe from January to June, and then the fresh food.

3. Can wild animals contract diseases from domesticated ones?

Probably yes, in certain cases. Mountain sheep have been found dead from what appeared to be sheep scab, probably contracted by grazing over ground previously cropped by domestic herds, some of which had the disease. Fortunately sheep herding in forest reserves is pretty much prohibited by law now, so that the somewhat scanty bands of mountain sheep now left, have less chance of suffering from an epidemic.

MOTIVE POWER THE VITAL POINT

Locomotive Repairmen Alone Will Tie Up Roads and Win Strike If They Stay Out Long Enough, Government Expert Declares—Most Engines Unfit in Three Weeks—Government Won't Allow Use of Unsafe Power.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, July 22.—The motive power of all railroads in the country will be seriously crippled, if not brought to a dead standstill, before many weeks if the strike of the six federated shopcrafts continues, it was stated in official quarters today.

By the middle of August, it was stated, locomotives on all railroads will be legally unfit for travel. Only by violating or "stretching" the federal laws governing locomotive inspection, can the big pilots be kept moving after that time, it was said.

Locomotives require constant "barbering" to keep them in condition, and the laws governing their inspection are rigid. Usually a pilot requires repairs after each trip.

Of 70,455 locomotives in the United States, over 260,000 miles of trackage, fully ten thousand of them were in need of repairs in the first week following the strike order. There are only 4,500 points in the United States where engines may be repaired expertly and with dispatch.

No more deadly blow to interstate commerce could be dealt the roads than for the shop workers to go on strike, a technical expert of the government declared. He added that "it matters little if all the Brotherhoods and affiliated crafts join the strike, the locomotive repairmen deal the deathblow if they hold out long enough."

The ensuing week, it was learned, will see thousands of locomotives ordered out of commission.

"It is foolish to suppose," the official stated, "that five hundred thousand strike-breakers can be found who can do the skilled work of regular shopcrafts men. If the strike continues another three weeks, I doubt that any locomotive on any road will be fit for operation."

The United States government has at its call the services of only fifty locomotive inspectors, who operate under the direction of a bureau in the interstate commerce commission. These inspectors are authorized to attach Order Number Five on any locomotive in service, following inspection. Order Number Five specifies that the locomotive designated must remain out of commission until repairs specified are completed.

Efforts to induce the interstate commerce commission to suspend the rigid inspection tests of locomotives in the present emergency, in order that the utmost service could be obtained from the rolling stock, have proved unavailing.

"In order to safeguard the riding public as well as the men who operate the locomotives, the commission will continue to order the engines out of service as rapidly as they are found to be in need of repairs," one of the commission's safety experts said.

BUILD DUGOUTS AT FAIR GROUNDS; THIEVES BUSY

Men are at work building dugouts for the baseball players and visitors on the Fair grounds in front of the grand stand, similar to those on athletic fields in the large cities. Thieves have recently been at work on the Fair grounds and the directors of the association are making a careful investigation with a view of having the thief or thieves arrested and brought before City Judge Schirick if caught. A number of articles have been stolen, a nozzle having been taken off rubber hose and twenty-five feet of new rope has been missed.

X-RAY HELPS IN REMOVING NEEDLE

A few days ago Alice Houst of Rosendale ran a needle into her leg it breaking off. Dr. Rymph brought the woman to the office of Dr. H. P. Van Wagenen on John street who located the broken needle with his X-ray and Dr. Rymph removed it.

Carl Anderson of West Hurley while fishing ran a fishhook in one of his hands quite deeply. He came to Dr. H. P. Van Wagenen in this city who removed the hook.

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, July 21.—John A. Ebel and wife of Woodhaven, L. I., N. Y., are stopping as guests at the Valley Inn. Mr. Ebel is an enthusiastic hiker and is accompanied by his wife and Rose W. V. Collery, who has been a guest for several months at the Inn.

Edward Lyman of Brooklyn arrived in Rosendale Wednesday and is a guest at the Mary Margaret cottage.

James J. Cummings and family from Flatbush, Brooklyn, have rented the Heuer cottage for the season.

Peter Hulpin of James street is a good driver of his new Ford sedan and takes many little trips to the surrounding country.

The Hillside cottage on James street is rapidly filling up with summer guests. Mr. Lang is chairman of the tennis court on the grounds.

Some talk among the residents for arranging for mid-summer carnival about August 6. All get-together for the big time, and see Doc Vaughn at the village drug store.

Guests at the Valley Inn are: Mr. and Mrs. Ebel, Mrs. McHugh, Mr. McAdams, Mr. and Mrs. J. Goebel, Charles Goebel, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Goebel, Donald Goebel, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sanderson and daughters, Agnes and Katharine, Mr. and Mrs. Rawley, Vera Rawley, Miss Florence Meade, Miss Frances Flynn, Miss R. A. V. GRANGE URGES USE OF MARKET

Appreciates Cooperation of City and Urges Producers to Support it For Remainder of Season.

Ulster Grange, No. 969, has adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, the members of Ulster Grange, No. 969, of Ulster Park, N. Y., appreciate the spirit of cooperation on the part of the mayor and other city officials of the city of Kingston in keeping the public market open though poorly supported during the early part of the season, be it

Resolved, that we urge every producer, selling in Kingston, and particularly the fruit growers, to support the market from this time throughout the season. Be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the mayor, and a copy sent to the Daily Freeman for publication.

GOVERNOR MILLER WARNS CARELESS NOTARIES

Not Enough Evidence Against Whipple.

A warning to all notaries public in the state that they "had better look out" in the matter of carelessness in taking acknowledgments of persons they do not know, was issued Friday by Governor Miller. The governor's warning came after a hearing on charges against Charles B. Whipple, a notary public of Cattaraugus county, of having certified to taking the acknowledgment of Mrs. Belle Kujawa, which she denied.

The governor dismissed the charges on the ground of insufficient evidence. It is believed, however, the governor will issue regulations shortly providing that no applicant for notary public is to be appointed until the application has been certified by a court of record.

"I wish there was some way that I could bring home to the notaries public in the state that they had better look out," the governor said.

"The fact is," he said, "that there has been too much carelessness by notaries public, which has resulted in very serious difficulties—even the neglect to sometimes file a certificate in a county in which the notary acts. Notaries take acknowledgments of people they do not know and immediately certify that the person was personally known to them—they take acknowledgments by telephone, and such carelessness results in serious disputes."

The governor told Mr Whipple that he would not hesitate to remove a notary public if he were convinced that he had certified to taking an acknowledgment from a person not appearing before him.

"I wish I could admonish," the governor concluded, "every notary public in the state that the careless habits which prevail need to be discontinued if they want to remain notaries public."

Get Out a Sandwich!

Two hours yet to lunch-time, but you know how it is on a picnic when that great, big out-door hunger swoops over you!

Any kind of sandwich makes the right response, but real de luxe holiday effects may be obtained with special fillings—chopped nuts-and-dates; tomato and mayonnaise; egg-and-lettuce; cold sliced ham or chicken with chopped hard-boiled eggs.

Cream Cheese and Walnut Sandwiches

Moisten one cream cheese with a tablespoonful of milk. Work in one-eighth teaspoon of salt and one-fourth cup of chopped walnut meats. Cut Bread in rather thin slices and spread with filling. If a dainty size is desired, cut each sandwich in four small triangular shaped pieces.

JELLY SANDWICHES

For the sweet sandwich—which serves nicely for a dessert—use marmalade, jam, jelly or any conserve not too liquid.

THE OFFICE CAT

By Junius

That Jamestown, N. Y., man's rooster that smokes cigarettes probably learned the habit from going out with the chickens.

Instructions.

"Officers, there will be a crowd at the hall."
"Yes, sir."
"Ladies first."
"Does that include girls in knickerbockers?"

It's better to have father and son meetings at the church than in the woodshed.

The man whose credit is bad has one big advantage. It's hard for him to get far into debt.

Waste Of Money.

Broker's Wife—I think it's awfully foolish to you to pay so much for a seat in the stock exchange. Every time I drop in to see you I find you either standing up or walking about.

Money brings so little happiness to those who have it that I can't think it will be the currency in our next existence.

Cheap thinking and high kicking are the things that are sending this country to the bow-wows.

Or a Live Wire.

"He's an amateur Edison. His house is full of home made electrical devices."
"A regular electric fan, eh?"

A skull half an inch thick found in Arizona will be sent to Washington. That's nothing new, though, most of them are.

"Why, is it that you have never married, Sam?" asked the white woman of the shiftless colored man who did odd jobs for her. "Won't any of the girls have you?"

"Oh, yas'm they'd have me all right," replied Sam. "But it's this-a-day When I feels like gettin' married, I ain't got no $2 for a license. And when I has $2 I feels too right to get married.

Best results are always obtained by yielding the right of way to a railroad train, a street car, or heavy truck.

In a Glass Cage.

"She has always led a sheltered life."
"An heiress?"
"Ticket seller at a movie show."

When a man is called upon to pay the price of his folly he feels like asking for a rebate.

Ikey and Izzy were separating after an evening together, when Ikey said.
"Au revoir."
"Vat's dat?" asked Izzy.
"Dat's 'good-by' in French."
"Vell," said Izzy. "Carbolic Acid."
"Vat's dat?" asked Ikey.
"Dat's 'good-by' in any language."

Apparently there is no way to cut the pattern of peace without having a few scraps left over.

HURLEY.

Hurley, July 22.—The Rev. Lawrence French was in the village Thursday evening of last week, having come up from New Jersey to conduct the funeral services over Mr. Holmes on Lucas turnpike. He stayed over night at Silas Elmendorf's to accompany the funeral party to Newark, N. J., where the interment took place. Mrs. French is at the School of Missions at East Northfield, Mass. Miss Taggart is also at the same place.

Pulpit supply has been arranged as follows for our village church on Sundays:

July 30, the Rev. Fred Foertner.
Aug. 6, the Rev. Jesse F. Dirice.
Aug. 13, the Rev. William Simpson.

The women of the village church are arranging a fair to be held about the middle of August. The success of previous years premises a most successful and enjoyable affair this year. Plans being now made give assurance of this. Full particulars will be given later.

Almost All.

A little girl had spent the whole morning at the zoo with her father and read all the notices and placards very carefully. As they passed the turnstile to return home the father said: "Well, I think we have seen everything, don't you, dear?" "Everything but the pickpockets they talk about," she replied.

Dogs Foretell the Weather.

Prairie dogs seem to have some kind of knowledge of the weather, if observers at the New York zoological park are right. Now and then the large members of the colony loosen the earth round their mounds with their forefeet, then shovel the soil upward with their hind feet. Other members work inside the borrow, throwing out earth to aid in the building. When a dyke has been built, the animals stamp the earth down with their heads—an amusing sight. As those operations invariably take place before a storm, the obvious purpose is to build a dam that will keep the water from running into the burrow.

Smallest Known Races.

The smallest known races are some negroes living among the other negroes of Central Africa; one tribe of whom, called Akkas, dwell on the west of Victoria Nyanza. The men and women of this tribe, who have been seen by many travelers, are four feet in height. They live by themselves in separate communities.

ADVANTAGES OF FARM DRAINAGE

The benefits of drainage are readily apparent to any intelligent observer. Some of the most obvious results are as follows:

It usually increases the yields and profits of crops.

It makes lands that are uncertain in production produce crops every year.

It brings into cultivation lands otherwise worthless. Not only can swamp lands be made tillable, but on farms where there are places too wet to cultivate, drainage will improve the land and cause it to produce good crops.

Drainage improves the physical condition of the soil by making it more granulated, porous, and friable. Thus stiff soils are more easily handled, the plants have a greater feeding area, and the available moisture in the soil is increased. Soils also absorb more of a rainfall, thereby decreasing erosion and damage by floods.

Drainage warms the soil. The evaporation of moisture by the sun requires heat which, if the excessive moisture is removed by drainage, is used in warming the soil. This is noticeable in the north, where the planting season is from one to two weeks earlier on drained than on undrained land. The danger of damage by frost both in the spring and in the fall is reduced.

The warming of the soil by drainage causes the seed to germinate more readily, thereby giving a better stand of crops and causing the plants to grow more promptly.

Drainage aids in the preparation of land and the tillage of crops. Land can be plowed earlier in the spring and is better pulverized. Crops can be cultivated sooner after a rain, and by closing small ditches with tile drains more improved machinery can be used and the cost of cultivation decreased.

Drainage improves the health conditions. Perhaps there is no better illustration of this than the number of mosquitoes found in parts of Illinois and Iowa when first settled. When the land was drained most of the breeding places of the mosquitoes were removed and with them the consequent malaria.

It is not uncommon for lands too wet for cultivation to produce when drained 50 to 70 bushels of corn and oats or from 1 bale to 1½ bales of cotton per acre. On a great deal of land the increase in yields is often from 25 to 100 per cent.

In some years on some wet soils drainage may not pay, while on others it may be necessary in order to save the entire crop. By increasing the yields and decreasing the cost of cultivation, the profits and the value of the land are often doubled.

The writer has met thousands of farmers who have used tile drainage, but in no instance where the work was properly done has he found anyone dissatisfied. Farms in the east who have used tile drainage state that it is one of the most profitable investments made on the farm. A planter in South Carolina with three years' experience stated that tile drainage had made land that never produced a crop before grow heavy crops of cotton, corn, oats and cowpeas, and on the other land had increased the yields and decreased the cost of production.

Perhaps the situation is best summed up, however, in the following statement of a farmer with 32 years experience in Illinois who owned 1,000 acres of land, all of which he had drained: "On soils needing drainage, no farmer can afford to be without it."

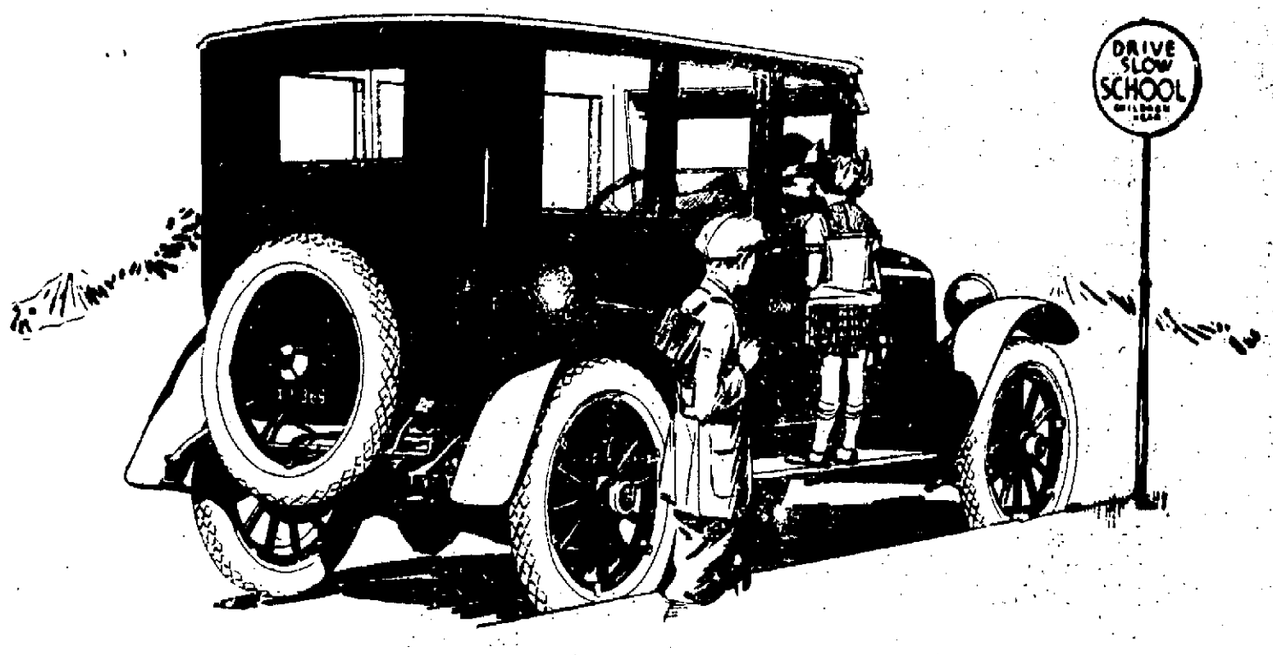
Lightest of Liquids.

Many experiments here and abroad have shown that liquid hydrogen is by far the lightest of all known liquids. Its density is one-fourteenth that of water, and, curiously enough, this happens to be the same ratio of density that hydrogen in the gaseous state bears to air. For long the lightest liquid known was liquefied marsh gas, which possesses about two-fifths of the density of water.



Owners of Lower Priced Cars Turning to the Hupmobile

One of the most notable developments of current automobile history is the definite and widespread turning to the Hupmobile, of thousands of owners of cars whose first cost is less.

There must be, and there is, something more than finer, powerful performance, greater comfort, easier riding, to attract this ever swelling multitude.

These men and women buy motor cars on the sound basis of common sense. They demand a maximum of motor car enjoyment—at a minimum of cost—and they find both in the Hupmobile.

It gives performance that no car anywhere near its price can give. It affords this pronounced advantage at a cost for upkeep and operation that is actually less than those of cars whose first appeal is price.

It provides those advantages at a slightly higher first cost that is actually much less when compared with the acknowledged higher re-sale value of the Hupmobile.

Please feel under absolutely no obligation to call upon us for a demonstration, at any time.

The Rev. W. W. Culp, former Spring Valley (O.) pastor, who eloped with Miss Esther Hughes, 19 boarder in his home, pleaded guilty in Xenia, O., to abandoning his family and was sentenced to one year in prison and to pay a fine of $500. He is shown in the upper right-hand corner, and Miss Hughes in the upper left-hand corner, between them being Culp's former church. In the two lower pictures are shown Mrs. Culp and their nine children. Mrs. Culp forgave her husband after he had been sentenced. Culp, in pleading guilty, said married at 19 at the advice of his parents and had stuck to his wife, though he did not love her. "I was always embarrassed by my wife's actions until Esther came into my life. Esther was an active worker in the church and inspired me."

SPADAFORA'S FORD TOOK TO THE WATER

James Spadafora, who is employed at Kingston Point Park in charge of the row boats and canoes, secured his boats Thursday evening before quitting and then proceeded to his Ford car, which he leaves near the railroad tracks by the boat landing. Spadafora cranked his car and before he could manage to get into the seat or grab the wheel it started for the lagoon at that point and took a plunge into the water, the rear end of the car top showing slightly above the water. With the aid of a block and fall and a few friends he succeeded after much trouble hauling it out.

Spadafora could give no reason for his Ford taking a dip at that place other than it was in gear and followed in suit with the large number of bathers at the point that evening. The car was not damaged beyond scratching the paint off while getting it to shore.

STURGEONS NO LONGER SPLASH AROUND BOATS

Once They Were Nearly a Menace To Navigation.

Old rivermen not only notice the disappearance of excursions along the river but they also realize that those days are gone forever when a whole school of sturgeons can be seen bounding here and there a hundred or two hundred feet ahead of the steamboat on which the passenger or riverman is sailing.

Most of the old river captains around town can remember the days when the water ahead of them seemed to be fairly black with these specimens of "Albany beef," as they were called a few years back, and if they were guiding a small boat up or down the river they oftimes viewed these sturgeons with apprehension as they were often known to displace so much water in their manoeuverings that the boat would be compelled to ship more of it than was good for the welfare of either the boat or those on board. During the past few years these sturgeons have disappeared and their disappearance is attributed by many to the fact that there are now a great many gases in the river due to the emptying of many different substances in the water which has done its share in killing them off. Once and awhile one of these animals, for so they may be styled because of their ponderous size, is still seen down in New York harbor. In the days when the sturgeons were plentiful the meat coming from them or the "Albany beef" being in great abundance was sold for three or four cents a pound and had a very large consumption. Today however when this kind of beef does appear on the market it is sold for thirty or forty cents a pound, and as a result does not meet with a very large sale.

STRIKE BREAKERS BROKE WINDOWS

Charles Smith, boilermaker, a strike breaker who was employed at the West Shore roundhouse in the north yard in the town of Ulster, was arrested Friday night, by Paul Thiel a railroad patrolman, on a charge of disorderly conduct. Smith was placed in jail and this morning taken by Sheriff Kolts, Officer Goodsell of the West Shore and Patrolman Theil before Justice of the Peace James E. Kennedy on the Plank Road, town of Ulster. Thiel charged Smith with having broken a number of panes of glass in the roundhouse. Justice Kennedy found him guilty and sentenced Smith to ten days in jail, and later suspended the sentence if Smith would agree to leave Kingston at once. This he agreed to do and Smith started back for New York City, where he claimed his address was 301 West 47th street, Room 11. He gave his age as 36 years.

Banks Raided in Ireland.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, July 22.—Four banks at Dundalk, 45 miles northwest of Dublin, were raided this afternoon and large sums stolen, according to a dispatch received from Dublin. Several unarmed priests, passing one of the banks, attempted to capture the raiders, but were warned off by the latter's pistols.

How Many Colors for a Section?

Not long ago a train started out of Grand Central in two sections. After running a few miles the first section lost time, and the second, running ahead, was ordered to put up green signals and run as first section. As this train approached the next tower the dispatcher asked the signalman if the engineman had put up signals. The signalman replied, by telephone, "Yes, he just put up the green and blew."—New York Central Magazine.

Mixup Was Too Much for Him.

Chester could not understand why Lloyd was called his half-brother. It was explained to him—his father had married twice. He couldn't seem to grasp the idea, however. Lloyd soon married and was later divorced, all of which mystified Chester greatly. But when Lloyd married again his bewilderment was complete. "Dad," he implored, "what relationship is Lloyd to us now?"

Fake and Truth About the Aspen.

The aspen leaf is said to quiver because the cross of the crucifixion was made of this wood. The fact is that the leaf is broad, and placed on a long leaf-stock so flexible as scarcely to be able to support it in an upright position. The upper part of the stalk is flattened, and, being at right angles with the leaf, is peculiarly liable to be moved by the faintest breath of air.

The toy ugly in form, design or color should not be given to children for it may offend an inherited artistic sense, and misdirect a budding instinct for those things which are beautiful. One cannot expect a child to develop good taste if he is surrounded by articles and playthings which violate all the canons of symmetry and color.

FAKE TROOPERS ALARM ST. REMY

At 12:30, midnight, a telephone call came to the sheriff's office from St. Remy that two men dressed as state troopers, wearing belts and with revolvers in holsters, had been around that place during the day and evening. Sheriff Kolts, Seth Jocelyn and Harry Kolts speeded in the sheriff's touring car to St. Remy where they learned that the men who were dressed and equipped like state troopers had stopped automobiles on the road and people on foot but what they had asked of the people whom they stopped could not be ascertained. They had also asked where Dr. Dudenhausen lived. During the day, the men who are said to be fakers, as there are no troopers in this section now, had a Ford car, but Friday night were noticed by young men and woman, who had been attending a dance at the St. Remy Hall, on foot prowling along the road. The sheriff and party scoured the roads in that section going as far as Oscar Tschirky's place but failed to get any sight of them.

ADDRESS COUNTY CLUB AGENTS

At this morning's session of the sectional conference of county club agents of the eastern section being held at the court house, M. C. Burritt, director of extension work of the New York College of Agriculture, addressed the agents present, in part, and in part held, first a questionnaire, then a round table that was exceedingly interesting and worth while. Mr. Burritt is a clean-cut logical thinker himself and crystalized the work of the conference so admirably that a fuller account of the morning's proceedings at the conference will appear in Monday's issue of The Freeman.

The afternoon's program included a round table discussion of "The Objective in the Live Stock Projects and Suggestions for Reporting Results," led by T. W. Crandall of the New York College of Agriculture and a demonstration of "Fitting Animals for Exhibits," given by E. J. Cooper.

TWO COAL TRAINS WRECKED BY DELIBERATE INTENTION.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Brownsville, Pa., July 22.—Bolts were removed from a switch and an engine and five cars loaded with coal were ditched on the Monongahela Railroad five miles from here early today. Traffic is tied up all day. State police are investigating as to who removed the switch bolts.

Bloodhounds are being used in a search for train wreckers who wrecked a Baltimore and Ohio train loaded with coal at Smithfield, nine miles south of Uniontown, early today. Seven cars of coal were piled up and the railroad track smashed for some distance.

These two wrecks of coal trains at about the same hour, at points six miles apart, on different roads, brought Fayette county officials face to face with a new angle of the coal strike situation which already is acute in this region.

RYAN TAKES A JOB AS WALL STREET RUNNER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 22.—That Allan A. Ryan, who has filed an involuntary petition in bankruptcy with $32,000,000 liabilities, is completely "broke" was emphasized today by the fact that his son has taken a job as "runner" or messenger for a Wall Street brokerage firm. Young Ryan has started at the very beginning in the broker game.

Although Allan A. Ryan's father, Thomas Fortune Ryan, is a multi-millionaire whose wealth nearly rivals that of Rockefeller, father and son have been estranged for years and friends of Allan say that he expects no assistance from his father.

Two years ago Mr. Ryan was rated as being worth $35,000,000. His assets of "cash on hand" at the time the petition was filed totalled $16.

Sahler Summer School.

The third week of the Sahler Summer School will start Sunday evening with a lecture by Doctor F. C. Birdi, who is the metaphysician of the sanitarium. His subject will be "The Soul of Nature." Doctor Birdi will also lecture on Tuesday and Thursday evenings and will give daily lessons at 10:30 on "The Science and Development of Man's Latent Forces." The usual weekly entertainment will be held on Wednesday evening. There will be excellent music at all evening sessions.

Mine Worker's House Dynamited.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Greensburg, Pa., July 22.—The home of Thomas Coster of Youngwood, five miles from here, was dynamited early today after threats had been received by Coster and three brothers-in-law warning them against working in the mines while a strike is on. Nine persons asleep in the house were tossed out of bed when the front of the building was blown out. John Filiky, a boarder, was probably fatally injured.

Services Largely Attended.

The services held outside the Y. M. C. A. building at 7:30 o'clock each Sunday evening are being well attended. About three hundred were in attendance at the last gathering. Sunday evening the preacher will be Dr. Ellis and the soloist, Richard Dawe.

Society Notes

The Dansant Social Success.

The first of a series of The Dansant to be given at Watson Hollow Inn held at that charming hostelry on Thursday afternoon was a decided social and artistic success. Fascinating and beguiling music was furnished by musicians from Woodstock, while the quaint rooms of the inn, the vine-covered porches were a most artistic background for the picture of daintily-clad and graceful dancers. Among those present were Colonel Samuel R. Jones, U. S. A., Mrs. W. S. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Caswell, Mr. and Mrs. Poultney Bigelow, C. Victor Livingston, Mrs. T. V. R. Browne, Mr. and Mrs. James Harmal, Jack Hilton, Miss Janette Corse, Miss Edna Corse, Miss Stencken, Miss Margaret Rising, John Davis, Mrs. Dederick Gale, Mrs. W. H. Kniskern, Mrs. Champlin Clarke, Mrs. Frederick Hill, Mrs. A. T. Clearwater, Mrs. Ralph D. Clearwater, Thomas H. Clearwater, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bogart, Gilbert Tucker. There were also other guests from New York city, Kingston, Woodstock, Saugerties and Catskill.

Birthday Surprise Party.

Thursday evening about twenty-five friends of James Terwilliger, the popular bus driver on the Rifton road, gathered at his home in honor of his natal day. The evening was spent in games and dancing and everyone voted the guest of honor a regular fellow. First prize in the games was won by Mason Rose of New Paltz and the booby prize was won by Olive Furgeson of Dashville. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the occasion and voted the surprise party a huge success. Among those present were: James Terwilliger, Cornelia Terwilliger, Laura Fleisher, Phillip Fleisher, James Van Kleeck, Floyd Davis, Carle Remy, all of Rifton, N. Y., Olive Furgeson of Dashville, N. Y., Mason Rose, Richard Peterson, Niels Peterson and Otto Peterson of New Paltz, N. Y., Harry Bohlet of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Florence Relyea of Kingston, N. Y. Marion and Buddy Bocke of New York City, Betty Fuike of Newark, N. J., Marie Rogers of Newark, N. J. The party lasted until nearly daylight, when all departed to their respective domiciles long to remembr the pleasant hours spent at James Terwilliger's birthday party.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons In This Vicinity.

Mrs. Gussie Clark died at the home of her brother in Schenectady, Thursday, July 20th. The body will be brought to Saugerties and buried in Mountain View Cemetery on Monday, July 24th. Deceased was well known in Saugerties, being a cousin of Mrs. Brace Van Loan, George A. Griffis and Charles Griffis.

George Stein of New York city died suddenly at the residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Hlavsa, on the River Road, town of Esopus, Friday afternoon. Although he had not been in the best of health for some time, the death of Mr. Stein came as a severe shock to his family and large circle of friends. He was well known in Kingston, having visited here on numerous occasions. Besides his widow, Mr. Stein is survived by two small children. Funeral from his late residence on Monday morning at 9:15 and from the Church of the Sacred Heart at Esopus at 10, daylight saving time, when a high Mass of requiem will be offered. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery.

The Rev. Ferdinand Cowle Iglehart, 72, of Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., died Thursday night. Dr. Iglehart was known as a Methodist minister, temperance worker, author and editor of the Christian Herald. He was well-known among Methodists of this city, where he has preached, and was prominent at the New York Conferences that had been held in Kingston. His long career has included the following pastorates and other positions: 1879-81, Indiana, Conference, Sullivan, New Harmony; John Street, New Albany; Salem; Locust Street, Greencastle; Trinity, Evansville; '82-83, Illinois Conference, First Church, Blomington; '84-86 Genesee Conference, Delaware avenue, Buffalo; '87-90, Newark Conference, Central, Newark; '91-95, New York Conference, Park avenue, New York; '96-97, New York East Conference, Simpson Church, Brooklyn; '98-1901, New York Central Conference, Trinity, Newburgh; '02, Asbury, Tarrytown; '03-05, St. Paul's, Peekskill; '06-15, New York City Superintendent, Anti Saloon League; '16-19, Lecturer on Sociology and Temperance, Syracuse University. Among his writings are "The Speaking Oak," "King Alcohol Dethroned" and "Theodore Roosevelt: The Man As I Knew Him." He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nancy Dorsey Stewart Iglehart, and four children, the Rev. C. W. Iglehart, the Rev. Dr. E. T. Iglehart, D. Stewart Iglehart and Mrs. Floyd Hanley.

THE JOINERS.

News of Interest to Members of Fraternal Societies.

Camp 30, P. O. A., will have an important meeting on Monday evening, when candidates will be initiated and visitors from Camp 51, Kerhonkson, are expected. It is hoped the degree team will be on hand promptly and that there will be a large attendance of members.

Patching the Strand.

Street employes are busy patching the holes in the pavement of the Strand in front of the railroad and steamboat shops from the Willite pavement to the railroad crossing at the ferry shed. This stretch of pavement has been full of bumps for a long time, and the repairs when completed will be welcomed by motorists.

Huck Finn—the Original.

Huckleberry Finn was drawn from real life. Barney Farthing, the original of Mark Twain's most famous characters, died a pauper in 1917, in an almshouse not far from where he and Mark Twain were schoolfellows.

Our Pear-Shaped Globe.

While Dowie insisted that the earth was flat, and his successor, Voliva, sticks to the same opinion, serious scientists now begin to hark back to the theory which Columbus formulated on his third voyage, that the earth is shaped somewhat like a pear.

The eminent geologist Sollas affirms that if the earth is tending to become round, it has not yet become so. It even appears that what is today the stem end of the terrestrial pear, which in the course of violent rotation threw off the moon.

This, says the Petit Parisien, is a theory. It is perhaps as good as any other, but anyway it is well not to get excited over it. Men were just as well off when they believed that the earth was flat and did not suspect the existence of antipodes.

A Neater Crimson Gulch.

"What did you do with the bunch of roughs who came over from Bearcatopolis and said they was going to clean up the town?"

"They had it their own way," answered Cactus Joe. "We gave 'em brooms and scrapers, and organized a posse to see that they made good."—Washington Star.

Sherman L. Whipple, senatorial candidate in the Massachusetts primaries against Henry Cabot Lodge, has been mentioned in the suit brought by investigators in the H. V. Greene Company, First People's Trust Company and affiliated organizations, charging conspiracy to defraud, with more than $15,000,000 involved. During one of the hearings Mr. Whipple's name was mentioned as one of the alleged defendants, who number thirty of the most influential men in the state.

Origin of Boston's Tremont Street.

The origin of Boston's Tremont street is said to be a corruption of Trimountain, by which name the town of Boston was first known owing to the presence of three high hills serving as a background to the peninsula.

Original "Limerick."

The word is said to have been adopted as a name for a certain kind of nonsense rhyme because an old song current in Ireland, which had the same verse construction, contained the place name "Limerick."

Day Is What One Makes It.

Every day that is born into the world comes like a burst of music and rings itself all the day through; and thou shalt make of it a dance, a dirge, or a life march as thou will.—Thomas Carlyle.

NO TRIMMING TO BEAUTIFY GOWNS

Modern Frocks Given Only Slight Decoration, According to Fashion Writer.

MATCHING COLORS ARE USED

Should Be Original and Made to Suit the Wearer; Draping Is Chief Characteristic of the Untrimmed Dress.

Where has all the trimming gone? No matter where, there is little or none upon the modern gown. The prophecy that this would happen was made some time ago, but no one really took it seriously. Even the suggestion of trimming to the well-dressed woman is met with a frown, observes a fashion writer in the New York Times. After a while, when we want to be original and different, we will adopt trimming motifs to prove our point. Only a short while ago we were expressing the same thing in a wholly different way.

When there is any trimming at all, it is likely to show humility by matching the color of the frock and by slipping in, as it were, without being noticed. There are beads, but they are what the trade calls "self color." There are ribbon edges, there are plaited chiffon inserts, there are contrasting sleeves, but all of these retain the color or shade of the original material. They keep in the scheme of things miraculously, and, in the strictest sense of the word, cannot really be called trimming.

At a dance in the country the effect of all the untrimmed dresses was startling. One would hardly expect to find so many of them gathered together in a single spot in a somewhat isolated corner of the community. Yet there were many new and lovely gowns, each cut and draped distinctively and each without so much as a sign of trimming to call its own. These women got the idea of doing the simple thing and accomplishing it exquisitely.

Every new gown has something of originality, for what would be the use of a series of untrimmed gowns all looking alike? That would be a worse state of affairs than an army of trimmed ones repeating each other. But these newer, untrimmed gowns are meant to show individuality and that being the case, it is necessary that each be cut with some relation to the figure and personality it is destined to adorn.

Drapery Chief Characteristic.

Draping is the chief characteristic of the untrimmed gown. In the arrangement of the folds lies the art. In the swing of the panels the character of the frock will be found admirably displayed. In the draping of the skirt may be concentrated all of the style which makes the dress a notable creation. Sometimes the matter of draping takes the form of a simple, straight line. But, after all, this is a sort of draping in itself with a peculiarity all its own.

An example of the straightness of a chiffon gown is supplied in a plaited frock. The color is gray—a soft, warm, lovely shade of gray, and the material is the thinnest possible weight of chiffon. The smock effect, with its extremely long lines, is posed over a black underslip permitted to show on the side by way of causing a little diversion amid all the grayness.

There is no trimming on this simple little frock. The edges are consistently picoted, one after the other. The sash and the little ties about the wrist are made of the underlying material, and all the rest is just one narrow plait laid over the other, creating a succession of folds that literally "make" the gown.

Would a frock of this charcter have been possible at all a season or two ago? Not likely. It would, indeed have been thought freaky by many, and now it is just a little better than the regular thing which we see all about us. Those of us devoted to design and character in clothes cannot but welcome these newer and plainer garments and the simplicity that is theirs. They are the acme of our accomplishment in dress thus far, and from this point we hope to march forward to newer and better things.

Straightness Principal Charm.

Of course, a chiffon frock of this design could be carried out in many colors and with variations in the arrangement of its plaits. But, after all, its straightness is its principal charm, and the more the plaits are kept running in long lines, one after the other, the greater will be the success of the frock, no matter what its chosen color. Suit the color to your type and personality, but keep the garment plain and you need not worry about whether you are reaching the pinnacle of fashion. You surely will be doing that.

In another dress that ignores trimming the tucks run 'round and 'round. The material is a soft crepe with row after row of hand-made tucks. They run crosswise, just by way of exhibiting their own originality, and do not cease from the time that they start at the armpits until they reach the bottom of the skirt.

There is no superfluous material, no extra fullness until it comes to the long drape on one side of the skirt. For a yoke there is another plain area of stuff, just by way of giving a certain variety to the general ensemble. Even the belt and the rose at one side are made of the same material, which, by the way, is a deep shade of midnight blue.

The dress, made of plain strips, was drawn from a model made of the brightest of bright reds. These plain frocks are particularly lovely in all the bright colors. This one had a straight foundation dress slit at the sides and gathered over the hips to make it suitable for any figure, no matter what its proportions.

For sleeves, there were narrow and long, extremely long, strips of the material doubled and picoted along all edges. This was tacked to the foundation slip only at intervals until it reached the hem of the skirt where it swung free except for the fact that the points of the sleeve drapings had tiny weights inserted in their lower edges to give them poise and keep them from swinging too wildly in the breeze. An informal little sash was made of a folded strip of the same material swung several times around the waistline and tied in a loosely swinging bow at the side. The whole effect of the frock was of something which naturally adjusted itself to the figure which it adorned and which seemed to suit that figure absolutely.

The edges of these untrimmed frocks perhaps are the most interesting characteristic. They are done as no edges ever have been done before. Not any of them are finished in any of the accepted ways. Picoting, of course, is the easiest of all, and has been adopted by many of the designers.

Choice of Colors Important.

The colors of the modern untrimmed frocks are of course, their greatest charm. Without the brilliancy of toning the lack of trimming might not be so conspicuously attractive. But in almost every instance the untrimmed frock has about it some distinctiveness of coloring which makes it stand forth as a beautiful creation.

The two newest colors for this summer are "blonde" and "wheat." They are especially pretty when worn by women with dark hair and olive coloring, for the faintness of their toning shows against the darker coloring with a charm which, in itself, is enough to make a success of the gown. The former is of the same shade as the lighter of the tortoise shell combs and it is beautiful when used for the construction of hats either as the whole of the coloring or for the foundation shape, to which bright tones of flowers are added.

The wheat colored jumper dress is destined to rival the present canary and mandarin shades of yellow which have found favor through the spring. It looks exceedingly well when combined in some way with the dark blue suits or the darker browns among the light-weight tweed suits.

AN ATTRACTIVE SPORT SUIT

A plaited frill adds much to the tuxedo sweater, and when of lavender wool and worn with a lavender and gray skirt the result is an attractive outfit.

THE VOGUE OF RIBBON TRIM

Decoration Ideal for Tub Frock; Faille, Taffeta or Velvet Strands May Be Used.

An unusual trimming arrangement is the distinguishing feature of a pale yellow handkerchief linen frock. The trimming consisted of black velvet ribbon about three-quarters of an inch wide run through button-holed slits arranged for it, so that it formed a sort of checker-board border down the side of the dress and on the ends of the short sleeves. The ribbon ends swing free both on the frock and sleeves. The dress is a simple, straight line model of the chemise type to begin with, panels of self-fabric attached at the waist line on either side, hanging several inches below the skirt hem proper.

This ribbon trimming seems ideal for a tub frock, as it may be slipped out very easily, of course, when the garment is to be washed, and when run in again the frock is like new. Faille, taffeta, or velvet ribbon may, of course, be used, all depending upon which is preferred. Ribbon might be used very effectively in this way to trim a crepe de chine or other wash silk frock.

The short sleeves that are shown in many of the warm weather frocks now being offered, augur well for a long glove vogue, and among the new long silk gloves displayed the bracelet style is being quite vigorously featured. Bands matching the silk of the glove and embroidered in a contrasting color, or in a lighter or darker shade than the glove, are loosely caught to the upper glove, one, two or even three of these bands being used, one at the wrist, another half the glove's length, and one at the edge. They are effective, especially if the two tones blend in the frock with which the gloves are worn.

ORGANDIE FOR SUMMER WEAR

Fabric Grows in Favor; Colors More Fascinating; Many Subtle Lights and Tones.

Organdie dresses grow constantly in favor. They grow, too, astonishingly in beauty. And if you want something to make you look your most youthful, most beautiful best, then do have an organdie of some sort or other—of some of the bright, gorgeous colors in which they come.

There are two just recently landed from Paris. They are both new and they are both simple.

One is just plain with three rows of little rufflings down the sides. These tiny flounces are plaited and picoted, all of which is done by machine, and then they are arranged in those interesting longish panels which constitute the dress' only decoration.

The other one is made with the handmade folds worked into the simplest pattern that has yet been seen. They are merely given a twist and then fastened to the edges of the frock. This is the popular handmade look reduced to its very most simple form and, again, it is something that no one need hesitate to attempt for the result cannot help but be charming.

Color in organdie is growing steadily more fascinating. There is no other material made for summer or for winter, either, in which there are so many subtle lights and tones of color. Then two of these colorings used together make the most interesting sort of a frock or one of them with white. Usually the material is enough in itself to make the dress satisfactorily charming. No other trimming seems at all necessary. But about that you can suit yourself, for there are all sorts of dainty rosebuds and ribbons and laces ready to be used if you want to do things that way.

Straight Silhouette.

Just at present a popular style is the blouse that is cut on straight smock-like lines, but long at each side, with back and front sections running into long side points so they may be loosely tied just below the normal waistline. This drapes the blouse about the figure, helping to effect a straight silhouette.

THE GOWN OF TAN CHIFFON

WINSOME FROCKS OF TAFFETA

Pastel Material Affords Charming Outfit for Bridesmaid; Same Fabric for Hat.

Very dainty and smart, and really an excellent suggestion for a bridesmaid's frock, is changeable pastel taffeta, trimmed simply with inset bands of net striped with very narrow metal braid. The effect is distinctly charming and unusual, although, of course, lace insertion might be used if preferred. The slightly draped bodice reaches just about to the normal waist line, and is fastened in the back. The taffeta lends itself well to the clever little overskirt draped up to the waist line and ending in a flaring bow at one side.

The same fabric and trimming used in the frock are also employed for the hat, an overlay of the net covering the top of the brim. The gold braid finished net bands appear on the crown, and the rosettes that surround the crown are of taffeta centered with mere touches of the gold braid.

If something more practical is desired, of course, the frock might be developed in navy or other dark colored taffeta and serve very acceptably for afternoon wear.

Another smart and youthful taffeta frock featured a rather narrow straight skirt, finished at the bottom with five ruffles each about four inches wide. The draped bodice, reaching to the hip line, was finished at the neck with four or five of these ruffles, forming a sort of mid-Victorian bertha. Ruffles are picot edged in metal thread.

WAYS WITH EVENING CLOTHES

Formal Garments Have Beauty and Richness, but There Is Very Little Variety.

Up to the dinner hour fashions are generous in offering an infinite variety, but after the sun has set, and the clock strikes seven, a most conventional mood seems to descend on the gowns and wraps. They have beauty, richness, but little variety. Not exaggeratedly decollette, they differ from those of a few years ago, when the bodice was a matter of a few beads. These today, inspired by ancient Greece, have a classic simplicity of lin One description fits a d zen dresses, long, straight, draped tightly to one side, mostly with a long pointed train, either sleeveless or with winged effects which develop into double trains. The bouffant is decidedly on the wane, except as a "robe de style." Even the skirts that are full, hang straight, due to the softness of the fabric.

The materials most seen are crepe de chine or georgette. Lace, that exquisite creation of the Middle ages, is distinctive in the new models because of its unusually beautiful colorings. Beads and crystal embroidery are lavishly used.

PLAIN AND CHECKED OUTFITS

Tweeds, Cheviots and Homespuns Leading Materials for Sport Suits This Season.

Tweeds, cheviots and homespuns have held the center of the stage this season for the more conventional tailored or "sport" suits, although variety has been given to these suits by various plain and checked or striped combinations. Among the smartest of the homespuns are those having an overcheck in contrasting tone. One exceptionally smart suit seen recently was a tan homespun with line overcheck in brown, and with this suit brown shoes, gloves, hat and scarf were worn.

Tailored blouses or shirts, both of cotton and silk materials, are often finished with a binding or self-fabric in contrasting color so that they may actually match the suits with which they are worn.

Here are some new pictures of the principals in the terrible "Stone Age" murder in Los Angeles, where Mrs. Clara Phillips (lower right-hand corner) is under arrest on the charge of having beaten to death, with a hammer, Mrs. Alberta Meadows (with telephone), a widow, employed as a bank clerk. Mrs. Phillips was insanely jealous of her husband, A. L. Phillips (upper right-hand corner), who, she charged, Mrs. Meadows tried to lure from her. Mrs. Peggy Caffey, who was with Mrs. Phillips at the time of the murder, is seen in the upper left-hand corner showing officers how the brutal murder was committed. She did not mention the crime until Phillips himself told the police, but declared she was kept silent because Mrs. Phillips threatened to kill her, too.

RYAN LIABILITIES ARE $32,435,477

Cash on Hand is $16 and Free Assets $643,533—Guaranty Trust is Chief Creditor—Banks Not to Be Disturbed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 22.—Allan A. Ryan, broker and capitalist and son of Thomas Fortune Ryan, declared himself bankrupt yesterday afternoon, with liabilities of $32,435,477.28, of which $27,806,984.74 is listed as secured, and with free asset of $643,533.

Francis G. Caffey, ex-United States District Attorney, was appointed temporary receiver with a bond of $5,000.

Mr. Ryan's voluntary petition was filed in the United States district court by his attorneys, Guthrie, Jerome, Rand & Kresel, of 37 Wall street. The petition for the appointment of a receiver was William Edward Coffin, a broker, who claims commissions due of $18,700. His paper was filed by Parker, Marshall, Miller & Auchincloss, attorneys, of 61 Broadway, whom Judge Augustus N. Hand later made attorneys for the receiver.

Two years ago last spring Allan Ryan believed himself to be worth about $35,000,000. His present plight is indicated by the statement he filed with the court, which lists not only some of the largest banks and leading financiers as his creditors but many tradesmen who supplied the daily wants of his household. "Cash on hand" is reported as only $16.

Of the liabilities $27,906,981 represents, according to the schedules, partly secured claims.

By far the largest creditor is the Guaranty Trust Company, which, as a trustee, took over Mr. Ryan's assets early in 1921 when he was struggling to extricate himself from his financial difficulties dating from the famous Stutz corner of 1920 and largely caused by the slump in the stock market in which he was heavily involved.

According to the schedules Mr. Ryan owes the Guaranty Trust Company $8,159,030, and against this the company holds his securities valued at $1,773,988, plus the undetermined actual value of customers' accounts receivable on December 15, 1920, by Allan A. Ryan & Co., whose face value is given at $1,312,943.

In addition to this Mr. Ryan is scheduled as owing his own firm $13,543,698 on securities owned by him but pledged to Allan A. Ryan & Co., and repledged by it to the Guaranty Trust Company. The value of these securities is put as $529,010.

Mr. Ryan, according to the formal schedules, owes the Chase National Bank $3,456,429, the Mechanics and Metals National Bank $1,402,963, the First National Bank $53,067.65, the Lawyers Title and Trust Company $389,089, the Empire Trust Company $166,705. These are among the creditors listed as "holding securities."

The position of the banking creditors of Ryan will not be injured in any way through the receivership proceedings, it was intimated yesterday. These banks, it was said, have what collateral they hold against Ryan debts so tightly tied up that the appointment of a receiver will have little or no effect.

George H. Burr, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company, was the only one of the bank officials involved who would make a statement. Mr. Burr declared that the receivership action has been anticipated and provided against by the Guaranty Trust Company. He said:

"Our interest in the situation results from loans made on collateral to Allan A. Ryan & Co. on our own account and in our capacity as trustee for others. The collateral has been in process of liquidation for some time and will be in no way affected by the bankruptcy proceedings."

Mr. Burr declined to indicate to what extent the collateral placed by Ryan against his loans from the Guaranty had been liquidated.

SEVEN KILLED IN TRAIN COLLISION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Springfield, Mo., July 22.—Seven persons were killed early today when the fast "Meteor Express," No. 3, of the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad ran into an open switch at Logan and crashed head-on into the combined "Katy" and "Frisco" Special No. 2, which was standing on a siding.

More than forty were injured, several probably fatally.

The dead are H. R. Rine, engineer, and Fireman Nealy of the "Meteor," and a man, wife and three children, all of one family, as yet unidentified. Two other children of this family were badly hurt and not expected to live.

The "Meteor," bound from San Antonio to St. Louis, was running about 45 miles an hour when it struck the open switch, and was behind schedule time. Both locomotives were demolished in the crash and the track was strewn with wreckage.

Most of the injured passengers were occupants of two chair cars on Train No. 2, East St. Louis to Oklahoma City, which was telescoped. Members of the family which were killed, were seated in the front seats of the chair car.

The mail and baggage cars of the "Meteor" were wrecked and it was believed the clerks in both cars had sustained fatal injuries. They were rushed to this city to hospitals along with the other injured.

MOMBACCUS CENTER.

Mombaccus Center, July 22.—We are sorry to hear that J. Bluming is in a New York hospital. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

The health officer has been through this place giving instructions.

William Markle purchased a horse.

Eltinge Churchwell and family visited their aunt, Mrs. Henry Krom, at Tabasco on Sunday.

Business this summer in this village is not as big as in former seasons. The farmers took advantage of the favorable weather the past week.

Shedding Weight by Work.

On the track, a loss of eight pounds in an hour is very common, even when men are in the pink of condition. So in the sea, where the best trained swimmers lose weight rapidly. One of them, in attempting to swim the Channel, is reported to have left the water ten pounds lighter than when he entered it, notwithstanding that he took a good deal of food, liquid and other, meanwhile. It is really absurd, therefore, to become apprehensive because of a slight loss of bodily weight. Of course, a continuous loss over a reasonable period should be attended to. But small variations, being natural and consistent with perfect health, need not worry anybody.

Described.

A teacher in English in one of our colleges describes a money-lender as follows: "He serves you in the present tense, lends in the conditional mood, keeps you in the subjective, and ruins you in the future."

Local Battler To Be Pointed For Britton Match If He Beats Siegel Monday—Fistic Doughboy a Tough One.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, July 22. (Special)—The stage is set for what should be one of the best ring battles of the year at the home of the Knickerbocker A. C of this city, the Chadwick Park Airdome, next Monday night. Vince Coffey, the Kingston welterweight, will meet Nate Siegel, the "Fistic Doughboy" of Boston in a twelve round bout which will, it is hoped, send Coffey on his way to bigger things, leading to a bout for titular honors in his class. Siegel won the championship of the 82nd Division, boxing 27 times without a defeat while in the army. He was wounded while on the firing line but the shots of the enemy failed to halt the boy or injure him permanently and since coming out of the army he has battled the best of the fighters in his class.

In addition to the Coffey-Siegel bout there will be a ten-round semi-final between Joe Hall, of Bridgeport, and Young Rogers, of Schenectady; a six round bout between Frankie "Allen" Renzi of Schenectady, and Paul "Biff Bang" Burns, of Troy and a four round bout between Patsy Lee, of Rensselaer, and Joe Riley, of Troy.

Chadwick Park, the home of the Albany Eastern League baseball team accommodates over a thousand parked cars.

JOHNSTON A NET COME-BACK

Tennis Star Who Beat McLaughlin Is Not Over-trained This Year and Has Already Trimmed Tilden Twice.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, July 22.—Bill Johnston, 120 pounds of fighting Californian, is heading east for the carnival of lawn tennis championships prepared to take full advantage of the fact that his selection for the Davis Cup team is so certain he will not find it necessary to overwork himself in preliminary matches. Johnston made this mistake last year and paid the penalty of being overtrained when he entered the Nationals at Philadelphia.

There he was beaten by his co-star of the Davis Cup team, Bill Tilden, in one of the semi-final matches. The nature of the defeat was such that a story got out immediately afterward that Johnston was through with competitive tennis.

He won the first set with comparative ease and then all but collapsed, Tilden running out the match by winning three sets in succession.

It was all the result, say the tennis gossips in these parts, of a far too intensive campaign in which Johnston indulged preparatory to the Davis Cup challenge round and the National championships. He played tournament after tournament at Newport, Boston, New York, Seabright, Southampton and elsewhere, and managed to work himself into top form along about the third week in August.

This was just about two weeks too soon. Johnston was not impressive in his defense of the Davis Cup against Shimidzu and Kumagae, and certainly his play in the championships at Philadelphia was not representative of the Johnston who flashed by Maurice McLaughlin to the national title in 1915.

He looked old and worn and passe. That is why the critics decided that Johnston's tennis had passed the zenith and that he would probably forsake the courts, once he realized his speed and stamina were gone.

They did not know Bill Johnston. Having a competitive heart as big as a cabbage and the rare gift of self-analysis, it was only to be expected that he would make an intelligent attempt to come back if only to confound his critics.

That is exactly what Johnston has done during the intervening twelvemonth. As a matter of fact he has come back like a bad check. He has already scored two victories over Tilden on the coast, and gives every indication of being the same little firebrand who was the most feared man on the American courts between 1915 and 1918.

But he has no intention of running himself stale before the big test is at hand. His is the type of game that reaches perfection in a comparatively short time and slumps off just as readily. A more gradual development of his game is his plan this year.

That is why Johnston did not hasten to accept that cabled invitation of J. O. Anderson, the Australian, to team up for the national doubles title. Johnston has no particular desire to run his singles form into the ground at such an early date.

TAGGING THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES.

Bob Meusel took no part in the Yankees' 7 to 5 victory over the Tigers, beyond the fact that he drove in five runs and scored the other two in person, with two singles, a triple and a homerun. Bush was rushed off the premises when the Tigers scored all their runs, Cobb and Veach hitting successive homers.

Your Uncle Robbie managed to get a well pitched game for the first time in weeks and it was just his luck that he must meet Alexander at his best. Alex confined the Dodger attack to four hits while the Cubs got to Reuther for six and the only run of the game.

The Indians are still running wild off the reservation. Behind the faultless pitching of Guy Morton, they won their twelfth straight by beating Walter Johnston and the Senators, 1 to 0.

Jimmy Ring passed six men in less than three innings and as a result the Phils finished a bad second to the Pirates for the third straight time, 6 to 0. Morrison pitched great ball.

The Browns took a running jump at the deliveries of three Athletic pitchers and won a go-as-you-please affair, 10 to 2. Sisler came out of his batting slump with three hits.

Couch outpitched Toney in a hectic duel, and in consequence, the Reds topped the Giants by a matter of 5 to 3, bringing the champions' slender lead over the Cardinals down to four percentage points.

The rampant Cardinals came from behind in the late inning for the third successive day. Fournier socking a homer with three on against Watson in the eighth. Score, 6 to 1. The Braves got fourteen hits off Doak, Barfoot and North and drew six passes, yet scored only once. Fine business!

The Red Sox eased thir way out of last place by beating their white hosieried contemporaries from Chicago, 8 to 7. John Collins, who had already driven in three runs, produced the winning tally with a single in the eleventh.

Results of Last Night's Bouts.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bayonne, N. J.—Irish Johnny Curtain knocked out Joe Clifford in the sixth round.

Coney Island—Wee Willie Spencer was given the decision over Roy Moore, 10 rounds. Marty Cross and Tommy McAleer fought a draw, 10 rounds.
